From Our Rector

Happy New Year! I was so pleased to be able to celebrate Advent and Christmas with you all this year. This past year has been a time for us to begin to get to know each other and I pray that this year will bring a deepening of affection and friendship as a community.

You may notice some minor changes around as we move into the New Year, the Pasta Supper is back the night before our annual meeting, there are new lights on our sign out front, February should bring the return of our stained glass windows and I'd like to start Lenten soup suppers – a time for light soup fare and fellowship on Wednesday evenings starting the week after Ash Wednesday. It seemed last year that we all enjoyed coming together for fellowship, usually around eating, and that we'd tie in some form of fund raising as an excuse. I'd like to propose that we get together and break bread because we like each other.

New Year is a time of renewal and resolution. Let us resolve this year to recommit to each other and our community. We can start with a strategic plan for the next five years. Now that we have begun to know each other a little bit where do we want to be and how do we want to grow as a faith community? We need to hear from everyone. There are traditions to keep and build upon and new ministries and possibilities we can explore. First though we can take stock of who we are and what our plan might be. I will be asking you to join me in this definition or redefinition.

We need to move first to a level of sustainability amongst ourselves. We will talk more about this at our annual meeting. We are a community of abundance. We have an abundance of charity and as I mentioned throughout the year cast a positive shadow in our greater community. How can we continue that and remain true to the maintenance of the center from which our community operates and grows?

Like most communities in the Episcopal Church these days we need to understand how we relate and are relevant to the lives we live and the people we touch. Ask yourselves why do many of you pass other churches to worship here? It is your answer to that question that provides relevance. Help us to communicate that to others. We don't have the only way or perhaps even the best way to walk in faith but we do have a damn good way. I see it in your helping hands. I see it in your laughter and hard work. I see it in your devotion when there is so much else calling upon your time and attention.

Together we can grow and sustain the fellowship you let me and Maggie join ten months ago. We can inspire each other. You have inspired me. We will make fits and starts I'm sure. We'll try new things or repeat old things that might not work. We'll learn and laugh.

The scriptures and life tell us that to everything there is a season. Let us ride this new year into a season of love and spiritual growth and allow the Spirit to make new what needs to be made new, to winnow down those things we need not do anymore. Let us break bread and worship and find God's Kingdom in this place on the knoll of Tashua.

In God's grace we pray.

Rob+

*“We’ve come this far by faith, leaning on the Lord; trusting in His holy word, He’s never failed me yet.”
As we enter Epiphany, I found this piece by Linda Ryan I’d like to share with you.*

I had to clean the debris out of my purse again recently. It seems to get cluttered up with bits of paper, essentials like my iPod, Kindle and cell phone, pens, ChapSticks and just about anything else that will fit in there. In the process, I ran across a small printed piece of paper that’s been in there for who knows how long. I have no idea where I got it, but there it was.

I was hungry and you formed a humanities club and discussed my hunger. Thank you.

I was imprisoned and you crept off quietly to your chapel in the cellar and prayed for my release.

I was naked and in your mind you debated the morality of my appearance.

I was sick and you knelt and thanked God for your health.

I was homeless and you preached to me about the spiritual shelter of the love of God.

I was lonely and you left me alone to pray for me.

Christian, you seem so holy; so close to God But I’m still very hungry, and lonely, and cold...

John Stott wrote this based on a passage from Matthew 25, and it almost defies the reader to ignore it. Now, when it seems that the safety nets of the poorest and neediest of our citizens are being swiftly cut it seems more applicable than ever. What in the world are we doing?

Some insist we are a “Christian” nation but how can we be if we ignore the very people Jesus spoke about the most – the poor, the ill, the widows and orphans? How can we claim it if we enable the rich to get richer while the poor only get poorer? Whether we are Christian, a member of some other religion or no religion at all, we all bear a share of the blame.

The health of our nation depends on the health of its people, and our score right now is low and getting lower. Cuts to education, the elderly, the working poor, the children and the marginalized are weakening us on many fronts. Involvement in wars in other countries doesn’t win us many friends abroad as we penalize the soldiers and veterans who do the fighting by cutting their housing, training and benefits which doesn’t win us many friends at home. Our children are less able to excel in the world education standings and our old people are treated almost like freeloaders and nuisances. The homeless are almost invisible, even as they lie on the sidewalks and park benches. Who cares? Obviously not big business or even our own elected officials.

Matthew records Jesus’ words about the sick, the hungry, the imprisoned and the marginalized but he also recorded something that should be uppermost in the minds of any Christian, “Whatever you did to the members of my family, you did it to me.” Of course, the ones who ignored those same people received the opposite message and a condemnation. It seems we pick and choose which instructions from Jesus we want to follow and too often the ones we look at are the ones that line up with our personal wants and desires.

Some preachers preach against the “social gospel,” preferring to encourage the “name it and claim it” or “prosperity gospel” instead. They put the focus on “I/me/mine” rather than “ours.” There are also some politicians who seem to put the prosperity gospel ahead of the social one when they hang on to the benefits they receive as elected officials while cutting the possibility of those same kinds of benefits for others. Christianity, whether preached by ministers or practiced by politicians, isn’t about “I/me/mine,” just as Christianity practiced by so many ordinary folks. Jesus didn’t restrict his teachings or his healings to people who voted for him, gave him big campaign contributions, practiced Judaism or even were from his own family or town.

I wonder what Jesus would say if he walked around our country today? He’d probably thank us for our prayers for the poor and suffering but ask what were we actually doing to fix the problem. He’d probably want to disown the lot of us because we’re all part of the problem unless we’re part of the solution. That being part of the solution is the tricky part, though. It means giving up some of the “I/me/mine” and handing it out to the “them,” in short, making the “I” “us.”

It occurs to me that I have a responsibility to do something, anything that can make even the smallest difference. The epiphany produced by Stott’s words need to have an action to complete it. What am I willing to do about the problem? And what are others willing to do in turn? Our future hangs in the balance. And Jesus is watching.

Calvary St. George's Community Supper

Thank you to all of our wonderful parishioners for their outreach giving in December.
Thanks to your unending generosity, we were able to help a lot of people!

We delivered coats and winter items to St. John's for their annual St. Nicholas Coat Drive.

We delivered coats, winter items and household items to the refugees supported by IRIS.

We donated many new toys and/or personal gift items to the McGivney Center so that their members could "shop" for their families for the Christmas holiday.

And, last but certainly not least, we donated warm winter clothes and socks to each person who is supported by The Prospect House in Bridgeport.

In addition to all of those who donated, a very special thank you goes out to all of those who organized, drove, delivered and volunteered their valuable time to our outreach programs.

We couldn't do it without you!!

A great big THANK YOU to everyone - kids, parents, parishioners and guests who helped make our Christmas Pageant so much fun and a big hit!

Christ Church Tashua Vestry Meeting Policy

Parishioners are welcome to attend Vestry meetings if they have a particular concern, idea or proposal that should be brought to the attention of the Vestry. A written request should be made to one of the Vestry officers or the Rector a week in advance for inclusion on the meeting agenda, along with any documentation to be reviewed in advance of the meeting. Approximately the first 15 minutes of the next Vestry meeting will then be set aside to address the parishioner's concerns, ideas or proposals. Otherwise, in the interest of covering all of the items on the agenda in a timely way, Vestry meetings are generally closed to parishioners.
